

A serial of five episodes that was telecast in 1994 and won the bronze prize in the International Cairo's Festival of films for children in 1995. It is a story of three children in an elementary school who are fond of reading detective stories. They fall under the spell of these stories and suspect two strange persons of being criminals. They pursue these two persons and set traps for them but they finally come to the conclusion that both persons are innocent. This serial was directed by Layaly Bader.
